German business leaders in the U.S. and academic experts from the U.S. and Germany discuss opportunities for those interested in transatlantic academic exchanges and in careers at German companies in the U.S.

UAS7, an alliance of seven German Universities of Applied Sciences, in partnership with TH Köln University of Applied Sciences and Munich University of Applied Sciences, both UAS7 members, will take their expertise in applied science education to Clemson University.

At the German Professional Conference “German Language Study and Your Career: Internships and Study Abroad”, organized by Clemson University, UAS7 speakers will deliver the keynote, addressing opportunities of transatlantic academic exchange and careers at German companies here and abroad.

Participating Universities

Clemson University

One of the country's most selective public research universities, Clemson University serves a uniquely driven and highly accomplished student body. Ranked as the 27th best national public university by U.S. News & World Report, Clemson is dedicated to teaching, research and service. Founded in 1889, we remain committed both to world-class research and a high quality of life. Clemson's retention and graduation rates rank among the highest in the country for public universities. Clemson University also boasts research facilities and economic development hubs throughout the state of South Carolina — in Anderson, Blackville, Charleston, Columbia, Darlington, Georgetown, Greenville, Greenwood, and Pendleton. The research, outreach and entrepreneurial projects led by our faculty and students are driving economic development and improving quality of life in South Carolina and beyond.

TH Köln University of Applied Sciences (TH Köln)

Technische Hochschule Köln University of Applied Sciences (TH Köln) – sees itself as University of Technology, Arts, Sciences. With its disciplinary and cultural diversity and openness, TH Köln’s activities are aimed on cultural and technological breakthroughs of high societal relevance; TH Köln contributes substantially to resolving social challenges. Our subject range includes the fields of Applied Natural Sciences; Architecture and Construction; Information and Communication; Computer Science; Engineering; Culture; Society and Social Sciences as well as Business Studies. Annually, about 5,000 students take up their studies at TH Köln. Overall 26,000 students from about 120 different countries along with 430 professors and 1,400 staff employ their potential.

Munich University of Applied Sciences (MUAS)

MUAS is with its more than 18,000 students in more than 85 BA and MA programs the second largest University of Applied Sciences in Germany. It is based in Munich, one of Europe's leading economic and science hubs. MUAS offers study programs in the areas of engineering, business, social sciences and design, characterized by a practical approach to teaching and research. It regularly scores exceptionally well in key rankings, i.e. in employer rankings because the students gain a practical understanding of their field and relevant on-the-job experience. Furthermore, MUAS has a broad range of excellent contacts and partnerships with the industry. Together with the Strascheg Centre for Entrepreneurship, it "lives" entrepreneurial thinking and acting and contributes to the active and responsible shaping of our society's future.

Both TH Köln and MUAS have long-standing cooperations with Clemson University. TH Köln and Clemson cooperate in teaching and research of computer science and its related disciplines and strive to re-invent their partnership. MUAS and Clemson University work together within the Global E3 Network.

Wunderbar Together

This event is part of a series of five events within Wunderbar Together, the Year of German-American Friendship 2019.
